MANDAMUS
PROCEEDINGS

Before Judge Hanbery in Regard To Party Affiliation.

160 VOTERS ARE IN PETITION

Strict Observance Of Election
Laws Will Disfranchise
Many.

The filing of a petition to Circuit
Judge Hanbery, Tuesday afternoon
by J. W. Robertson and W. W. Morris for the issuance of a writ of mandamus requiring County Clerk Stowe
to correct the registration books
used in the registration last October and supplemental registrations aroused considerable interest when the Judge took up the case yesterday morning. The petitioners were represented by County Attorney Duffy
and Judge Cook represented Mr.
Stowe. The suit is altogether a friendly one and the rights of about 160 legal voters of the city are involved.

The petitioners claim that at the regular registration and supplementary registrations they were not asked as to their party affiliation, which was the duty of the judges of the regular registration and the duty of the County Clerk at the supplemental registration, and their party affiliation was not recorded. On account of this they are barred by law
from voting in the primary next Saturday. They seek to have the books of both registrations corrected
by the County Clerk, but the power of Mr. Stowe to correct the mistakes
of others was questioned.

There were several lawyers present
and the election laws were thoroughly digested with considerable variance as to construction.

Judge Hanbery and the attorneys talked the matter over for an hour
when the Judge said that he would consider the matter and hear the parties again to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

He said that he wanted to give the voters of all the parties a fair showing, and asked the attorneys to file an amended petition by Friday and in the petition to include the affidavits of the 160 voters whose names were left out of the first petition.

Somehow it is believed that every registered voter will be allowed to vote whether his affiliation was recorded or not. This must not be taken as conclusive, however. The court will make no mistake when he renders his decision.

FALSE ALARM

Fire Department Called To East Seventh Yesterday.

An alarm was turned in yesterday morning at 8:15 from the home of
R. B. Conway, on East Seventh street
beyond the dormitory of McLean College. The department answered promptly but found nothing more than the soot in the flue of the kitchen burning out. Mrs. Conway apologized to the firemen for calling them out. As sparks from the flue were dropping to the floor Mrs. Conway had good reason for being alarmed.
The firemen told Mrs. Conway that she did exactly right and not to fail
to do so again under similar circumstances.

CRUSHED BY
HEAVY WAGON

J. W. Pendleton Fell Under Wheels After Jumping.

INJURIES ARE VERY SERIOUS.

Physician, After Examination,
Fears Injuries May
Be Fatal.

Information reached here early yesterday morning of what may prove a fatal accident to Mr. J. W.
Pendleton, whose home is 10 or 11
miles from the city, on the Canton road, and about 2½ miles from Julian.

Mr. Pendleton was on a wagon with his son, who was driving. The wagon was heavily loaded with green lumber, and on approaching a hill
Mr. Pendleton jumped from the wagon while it was in motion to lighten the load for his team. When he jumped one foot struck a stone and he was thrown backward under the left hind wheel, which passed over him between the breast and stomach. His son looked behind him and saw his father lying in the road and rushed to his assistance.
Mr. Pendleton was suffering greatly,
and as soon as possible Dr. Caudle
was summoned.

During the night the unfortunate man was in the greatest agony which could not be relieved except by the frequent use of an anaesthetic. Owing to the great pain Mr. Pendleton was enduring, only a preliminary examination could be made, but Dr.
Caudle expressed fears that his patient cannot recover from his injuries. A fuller examination was to be made by Dr. Caudle and Dr. Rascoe yesterday.

The body of the young man killed at St. Bethlehem, Saturday turned out to be that of Tom Winters
instead of a young man named Bar-ham, of Russellville, as first reported.

Former Governor M. R. Patterson,
arrested in a Nashville house of bad repute, issued a card saying that he was intoxicated and not responsible for his acts and was asleep in a room alone when arrested. He makes a humiliating admission coupled with the pledge that the offense will never be repeated. His wife also issues a card saying she stands by him in his trouble.

STILL MAY EAT POTATOES

Admittedly There is Poison in Favor of the Vegetable, but it is of a Beneficial Kind and Does Good.

"Poison in the potato" is an alarming caption, but consumers of the "murphy" may set their minds at rest. According to a writer in the London Lancet, the poison in question has more of a beneficial than a maleficent action.

Though the poisonous alkaloid
and glucoside known as solanine is a normal constituent of the healthy potato, references to the toxicological literature fail to furnish any decisive evidence that the tuber has caused any widespread or serious illness. In these days, when alarming symptoms of poisoning may sometimes be traced to food in which, for some mysterious reason, the poisons
known as ptomaines have elaborated themselves, it is just as well when searching for the fons et origo mali not to forget the potato, for under certain conditions, solanine may be found in unusual quantity, and this alkaloid may set up the usual disturbances which are characteristic of an irritant poison.

It appears to occur in large proportion in the peel, so that there may be reasons for avoiding the "jacket."
The English savant adds that oftentimes a judicious diet of potatoes would be of greater benefit to a good many self-physicking people than a dose of some antipyrilic substance which they regard as adapted to relieve all headaches, whatever their origin.

DEFENSES of the CANAL

E. W. PICKARD

IN THE PANAMA ZONE

Culebra, C. Z.—"The strongest defense of the Panama canal, in my opinion, is the fact that a hostile vessel must come into a 500-foot channel long before it is within striking distance of the vital points of the canal, the locks, and in doing so must pass within easy range of the forts that are being built to guard the entrances."

So spoke Colonel Goethals when I asked him as to the vulnerability of the canal in time of war. Continuing, he said:

"The naval power of the nations is so nicely balanced now that no one of them would be willing to risk the destruction of a single battleship by attacking those forts, which will be equipped with powerful guns, and of course the accuracy of guns on shore is much greater than that of those on moving vessels. I do not believe the forts would be attacked from the sea before the enemy had fought and won a naval victory."

The forts of which Colonel Goethals spoke are nearing completion and the emplacements for many of the heavy guns already have been constructed. No one not officially connected with the work is permitted to approach them, but I venture to say that in case of urgent necessity the guns could be hurried down to the isthmus and mounted ready for emergency service within a very short time.

Two forts protect the Atlantic entrance of the canal. One is on Toro Point, at the land end of the long breakwater that shields Colon harbor, and is on a considerable elevation. The other is on Margarita island, a low-lying islet close to the shore about a mile northeast of Colon. Both these fortifications are shielded from observation by the palms and other tropic vegetation.

At the Pacific end of the canal, a little more than three miles out in the ocean and close to the eastern side of the deep water channel, lie the four little islands of Naos, Perico, Culebra and Flamenco. These the United States acquired with the Canal Zone. On Culebra is the quarantine station for that end of the canal. On the others are being built strong fortifications.

Chances that such a force would have of finding sustenance. Then little groups of soldiers have been started from various possible landing places with instructions to make their way as swiftly as possible to given points along the canal, mapping the country they traverse, in order to determine what an enemy could do.

The result of this work of investigation so far, briefly and wholly unofficially stated, is that the shores of the Atlantic ocean, within a good many miles of the zone, are impracticable for a landing force because of the nature of the country; that a landing could be made easily on the Pacific side some distance west of the zone, but between there and the canal the jungle is so dense as to be virtually impassable; that the dangerous district is that lying immediately east of the zone on the Pacific side. On the last mentioned shores an enemy could well land an army, and the semi-open, rolling savannas between there and the canal would give easy access to the zone.

The army officers on the isthmus make no secret of the fact that their investigations are being carried on mainly with the Japanese in mind. How those islanders could land there and what they could do if they did land are the problems engaging the attention of Colonel Greene and his men of the Tenth.

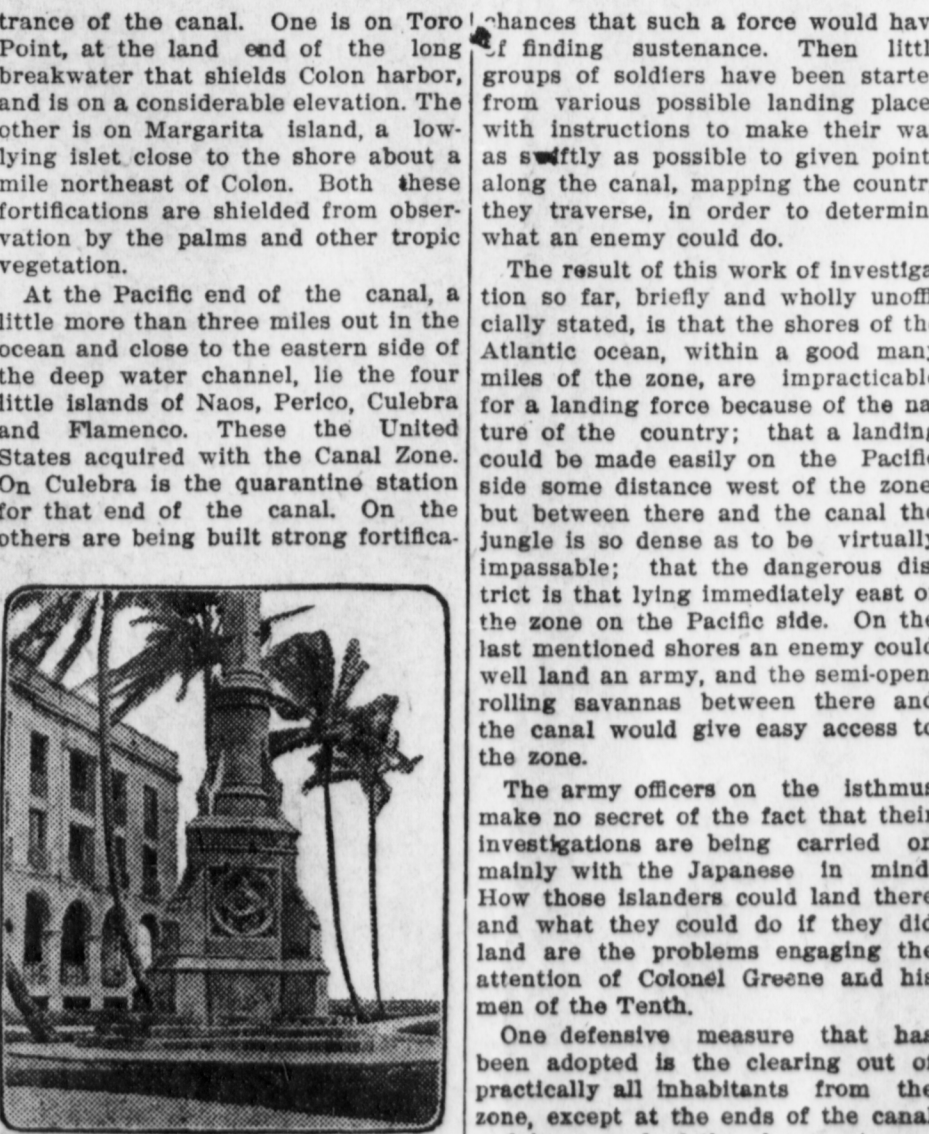

One defensive measure that has been adopted is the clearing out of practically all inhabitants from the zone, except at the ends of the canal and in several of the larger towns, which, as I have said, may be kept as quarters for the soldiers. All holdings of land are being valued by a mixed commission and the residents moved away. When the canal is completed the jungle, much of which has been cleared out, will be allowed to grow up again, for the experience of centuries has shown that that jungle itself is a powerful defense against an invading army. The practicable roads through it are few and far between, the streams not navigable, and the growth of trees, brush and great vines so dense that it is virtually impassable for a body of men, to say nothing of cannon and supply wagons. A rapid dash through the jungle would be entirely out of the question, and when the zone is deserted all food supplies will have disappeared.

Some fear has been expressed that a few men could land, make their way quietly to the canal and blow up the locks. But it seems unlikely that they could get ashore and transport to the canal, undetected, enough explosives to do any great damage.

On the whole, the canal will be quite adequately protected—provided it is not attacked too soon.

tions. The rounded tops of the rocky islets have been cut off and a little army of men is busy blasting and shoveling and preparing the bulwarks behind which will be mounted long cannon and immense mortars. The four islands are all being connected with each other, and Naos, the nearest, is joined to the mainland at Balboa by a breakwater about 11,000 feet long, on which has been constructed a railway line.

Some eight miles away, nearly due south, lies the larger island of Taboga, and timid souls have suggested that it would form a safe shelter and recuperating point for a hostile fleet, for its hills rise to a considerable elevation and on its south side there is plenty of deep water. But if Colonel Goethals' opinion is to be taken—and it should be—Taboga need not cause Uncle Sam any anxiety.

"The mortars to be installed in the Pacific fortifications," said he, "will be

TEN DAYS

WHILE we have had our regular Mid-Summer Clearance Sale, in which prices and profits were thrown absolutely to the winds, we are going to have a Ten Day Special Bargain Feast for our friends and those desirous of becoming our friends. Having bought heavily for our chain of stores and in car load quantities we were able to secure prices that leave us a legitimate profit when we sell our goods for the same price that our competitor buys his for. We have been notified by some of the factories that have been running day and night making goods for our chain of stores that shipments will be going forward to our Hopkinsville store within the next ten days time and hence the Ten Day Special Bargain Feast. We absolutely have not enough room to store half the merchandise we have purchased for fall and we must make room, even if we have to sell summer clothing and seasonable merchandise for less money than it cost us at the factory. It will pay you to come and buy a summer suit and put it away for next season.

CLOTHING

As our entire shelf room is going to be insufficient to take care of our new fall line of shoes we are going to clear them of all low quarters and to do so we are going to sell them without profit.

This is the last chance of your lifetime to get the best pair of shoes you ever had for less

The above picture shows the large crowd that attended one of our big Sales in Hopkinsville.

WE have among our lines of clothing some of the best known brands in the United States, such as Goldman & Beckman, Sincerity, Ettinger and many others too numerous to mention. They not only excel in durability, but they make all other brands look like selling platters when it comes to style and nobby fit. You know that our house for years has been recognized as the house of styles and we give as much of this credit to the brands of clothing we are handling as to any one other thing.

Shoes The Utz and Dunn for ladies; the Plamate and the 9 o'clock School Shoe for children in this sale. During the time we have been in business our competitors have time and again changed their line of shoes, but we have kept to the front our Florsheim line, and from the way sales have increased they are making them better every day. The Florsheim is a rich man's shoe at a poor man's price and it is very seldom that you have an opportunity of buying them at a reduced price.

SPECIAL OFFER

On the opening day and as long as they last, we are going to throw 25 pairs Ladies Oxfords on a Bargain Counter, each from $2.50 to $3.00. Choose the pair.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first class daily.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HELP EDUCATION

Suggestions by Louisville Commercial Club.

BENEFITS OF CO-OPERATION.

Kentucky Sunday School Association Has Done Excellent Work, and Its Influence Can Be Extended Through the Efficient Aid of Public School Teachers and Superintendents.

The educational wave is rising in our old state. For a long time each and every organization that was helping the movement has been working independently. Now there is a desire to get together. The following report of a special committee on the work of the Sunday school association and that of the Louisville Commercial club, will explain itself.

The Kentucky Sunday School association has a splendid organization. Every county has some form of organization. Many of the people who are interested in all the best interests of the county are numbered among those who are connected with this association. These persons can be given a broader view of what the Sunday school, the public school and the home could do for the entire community, reaching into the physical, mental, social and spiritual development.

Not only the city pastors, but the rural pastors, who are in a measure leaders in the communities, are connected with the Sunday School association, and in many cases the public school teachers, superintendents of the county schools and others engaged in educational work.

The Commercial club is reaching through its wide system of publicity, the prizes it has been offering, and the correspondence conducted, many who are interested in true education but whose viewpoint is different from that of Sunday school workers.

The Kentucky Sunday School association holds conventions in almost every county in the state every year, attended by thousands of the better citizens. In addition to this several hundred district conventions and nearly a thousand rallies and conferences are held. This association also publishes the Kentucky Sunday School Reporter with a circulation of about 5,000 per month.

These two organizations could greatly strengthen and advance the work both are doing by securing one or more persons in each county who would represent both organizations. Under the direction of such persons a survey of many counties might be made, finding the present conditions and forming a common basis for future work. At the conventions held time could be given for the discussion of topics of vital interest for the upbuilding of the community, school, home and Sunday school and the length of the convention be increased to two entire days. The same thing could be done in district convention, rallies and institutes. By holding conferences where a wider range of topics would be presented each would be able to reach many that have not yet become interested. Then each could help the other.

Therefore we suggest: First.—That in the future on all programs of institutes, conventions and rallies there be given a topic relating to the correlation of secular and religious education in the state along definite lines and that this topic be assigned to a person well informed on both religious and secular education.

In such way there might be the opportunity of bringing to the attention of people who have never thought on the matter the value of such correlation. Because of the wide opportunity which the Sunday school speaker has of reaching audiences in the state this would be the surest way of arousing enthusiasm, disseminating information and removing prejudice.

Second.—That in the future at all electing conventions—district, county and state—there be chosen superintendents who shall promote the co-operation of secular and religious educational forces along definite lines.

Third.—That whenever opportunities arise the possibility of the use of the church as a social center be emphasized and encouraged, making a possible opening for the dissemination of educational ideas.

Fourth.—That at the state convention this work be made a distinct feature of the program and if possible a department session be given it.

The Truant Law.

When this law is so openly set at naught as to bring a particular case to the attention of the public it is time that a halt was called and the malefactor made to suffer for his shortcomings. The sending of a child to school is a moral duty, and when this moral duty is neglected by those whose duty it is to observe it is the duty of the authorities to step in and take a hand. We want to say that if the county superintendent's attention is called to some flagrant violation and she is compelled to act the strong arm of the law will fall in no gentle manner upon the shoulders of the malefactor. Better send the kiddies to school, which is your duty, and where they belong and thereby fulfill your moral obligation as well as avoid a conflict with the school authorities.—Central Record.

PALESTINE A CITY OF JOY

Lecturer Says Jews Go There to Live and Pray, Not to Die in Its Ruins.

"Zionism comes to us in these later days as the only solution to the Jewish question, the only method that comes to the modern Jew to make his Judaism once more operative as of yore," said Miss Henrietta Szold recently in an address before the Philadelphia section of the council of Jewish women at the Benjamin F. Teller Memorial schoolhouse on "The New Palestine."

"The Palestine of today," said Miss Szold, according to the Philadelphia Ledger, "is not a city of ruin. It is a city of song and not of mourning. People now go to Palestine to live and pray, not to pray and die."

"Zionism is not a palliative, nor a specific, but a final solution of the Jewish problem. It did not expect all the Jews to go to Palestine, but did expect them to help the wretched wanderer to find a home."

Miss Szold made a plea for moral and financial aid to the movement, and showed a number of pictures of Jewish institutions in Palestine.

Mrs. Richard Gottheil of New York added her appeal to that of Miss Szold for co-operation with the Zionist cause.

A communication from Miss Helen Fleisher announced contributions amounting to $2,250 for the employment of a social worker to look after Jewish girls.

HARD WATER IS HEALTHFUL

German Scientist Finds Teeth Are Aided by Lime Deposits Which It Contains.

Hard water, particularly water containing much lime in solution, is popularly supposed to be bad for the health.

But the observations of a German specialist named Rose go to show that hard drinking water and good teeth go together. With the usual German thoroughness, he supports his claims with statistics, according to the Boston Globe.

From several thousand examinations of the teeth of children, he says that where water has less than two degrees of hardness there are only 1.3 per cent. of sound sets of teeth. As the hardness of the water increases the percentage goes up, until, where the hardness is 38 degrees, more than 20 per cent. of the children have sound teeth.

The best teeth were found in localities where, in addition to lime, there was magnesia, which hardens the enamel.

As to general health, the number of young men fit for military service is greatest in the hard-water districts. In one department where the degree of hardness was 10 degrees, the proportion of recruits was only half that of another, where 30 degrees was the rule.

GARDEN PLANTING.

We all mean to go out in our gardens and sow our annuals at the proper season, but no matter how good our intentions may be, there are always interruptions that put us back, so when spring cleaning, dress-making, measles or anything else prevents you from carrying out your plan and you realize that everyone else in your suburb has got ahead of you, here is a help that seldom fails: Put your sweet pea seeds and nasturtium seeds to soak in a jar of water for 24 or 36 hours before planting them. They will come up in half the time they would if planted in the ordinary way. The same idea holds good for any hard seed which naturally takes a long time to germinate.

OPENLY DIVULGE AGE.

In Japan every woman has to dress according to her age, and it is pretty certain that such a fashion, if fashion it is, will never prevail in this country. Suppose it were the rule that every woman upon a certain birthday anniversary should adopt a certain kind of dress, there would be a forgetting of birthday dates in very short order. In Japan a woman wears gold pins until she is twenty-five. At thirty the pins are white, merely spotted with gold, and at forty she wears plain shell combs. Her shoes are also changed as the age changes.

HARNESS FOR AVIATORS.

KENTUCKIANS' HOME-COMING

ONE MILLION FORMER RESI-DENTS INVITED TO ATTEND
GREAT CELEBRATION.

RAILROADS OFFER LOW RATES

Perry's Victory on Lake Erie, Battle of Thames and Massacre of River Raisin To Be Reproduced in Fireworks and Sham Battles.

One million expatriated Kentuckians and their children, even to the fourth and fifth generations, have been invited to return to Louisville to participate in the Perry's Victory Centennial Celebration, to be held in that city seven days, beginning September 29. Those particularly invited are the descendants of Kentucky soldiers and sailors of the War of 1812, and it is estimated that 75 per cent of native-born Kentuckians and the descendants of those born in Kentucky in the past century are eligible to participate in such a celebration. Approximately one million people now living in other states are included in the "list of those invited."

The purpose of the Louisville celebration is to commemorate not only Perry's victory on Lake Erie but all other events of the war of 1812. However, in particular honor of Commo-

GOVERNOR ISAAC SHELBY, OF KENTUCKY

Who in person led the victorious forces
in the Battle of the Thames.

dore Perry a special attraction in the Louisville celebration will be the reunion of the Perry family, regardless of kinship. Everybody by the name of "Perry" will be invited to this special entertainment and those who expect to attend are requested to notify Edwin Perry at the Louisville headquarters.

The Kentucky Association, which has in charge the Louisville celebration, has given an order for a quarter of a million ancestry certificates to be handsomely engraved, and which will be filled in and given away as souvenirs to descendants of Kentucky soldiers and sailors of the War of 1812.

Another entertainment in their honor will be a mammoth reception, at which refreshments will be served and opportunity provided for public addresses. For the few remaining actual sons and daughters a banquet will be given. A great ball will be given in the First Regiment Armory, which has a capacity of 20,000 for them.

Forty per cent of the white male population of Kentucky engaged in the War of 1812, consequently forty per cent of the succeeding generation were really sons and daughters of that war,
and, estimating that one-half of them
intermarried with families which did not participate in the war, sixty per cent of the third generation were grandchildren of the war, and in similar manner at least seventy-five per cent and probably as high as ninety per cent of the fourth and incoming fifth generations are descendants of Kentuckians who fought in that war.

It is estimated that in the state of Kentucky alone one million men, women and children are eligible to participate in the proposed reunion, and it is estimated that another million now living outside of Kentucky are eligible to participate.

During the week of the celebration
in Louisville spectacular free events, including features on a mammoth scale not heretofore given with any American celebration, will be provided every afternoon and evening. Pilgrimages to notable historic scenes of interest may be made in the mornings.
In addition to free attractions there will be scores of the highest priced amusement concessions that can be secured on the American continent.

The railroads in a radius of 500
miles of Louisville have been asked to make a rate for the celebration week and immediately preceding and following that week of one cent a mile.
Railroads running out of Louisville probably will give low rates to other points in Kentucky, so that former Kentuckians who live a great distance can visit their old homes as well as attend the Louisville celebration.

Local committees are preparing an 1812 museum, in which they solicit the loan of any souvenir or relic of the War of 1812, providing the transportation at their expense, and guaranteeing that articles loaned for the week will be returned to owners. This museum for the time being will undoubtedly be the most valuable collection in America.

Nearly Smothered.

Chandler, N. C.—Mrs. Augusta
Lomax, of this place, writes: "I had smothering spells every day, so bad I expected death at any time.
I could not sit up in bed I suffered from womanly troubles. My nerves were unstrung. I had almost given up all hope of ever being better. I tried Cardui, and it did me more good than anything I had ever taken.
I am better now than I ever expected to be." Thousand of ladies have written similar letters, telling of the merits of Cardui. It relieved their headache, backache and misery, just as it will relieve yours, if you will let it. Try Cardui.

HOME GARDEN CLUBS GROWING

Campfire Girls of Louisville
Use Vacant Lots.

ADVICE FROM AN EXPERT.

Children Taught to Help Furnish Their Own Tables With Fresh Vegetables.
Idea Is Spreading to Country Towns.
Future Men and Women in Close Contact With Growing Things.

The continual cry, "Back to the soil,"
that is heard in the newspapers and magazines is keeping the attention of the people in the country as well as those in the city fixed on gardening and farming. This is not only true of the small town and the back country,
but it is also true of our big cities, for home garden clubs are growing in popularity and in numbers each season.

This spring the city of Louisville organized a home garden club that gardening among men, women and children, and especially the children, might be pushed. That the work might be real and that definite results might be obtained, vacant lots were secured
at various points and model gardens

HOME GARDEN CLUB GIRLS.

planted. A man who had practical experience was engaged to take charge of the work and is now busy moving from place to place suggesting plans and methods by which the children can help furnish their own tables with vegetables fresh from their own gardens.

The photo which accompanies this article was taken on the outskirts of Louisville, where a group of four Campfire Girls have a model four plot garden.

This work will have a vital effect
upon the men and women of tomorrow
by giving them an understanding and a growth which can only come through close contact with the soil and growing things. Education is gradually shifting to a rational use of books and a fuller use of the life which the child leads in the garden, in the home, and under blue skies. It means an education that makes red blood throb in young veins; it means an education that does things in the everyday world; it means an education that is close to the primitive; it means an education that fits the child for life.

"BACK TO THE SOIL."

Movement Can Be Aided by Modern Ideals and Methods.

The effort to better rural conditions is touching a fundamental problem of American life. The "back to the soil" agitation can have little permanent effect until we go back to the tiller of the soil with the inspiration and enlightenment of modern ideals and methods. We must carry the message into every fertile valley and to every mountain side; we must get back from the traveled roads and the steam and electric lines; we must reach the little isolated schoolhouses, the country churches and every other agency that can be a source of help. We can give the schoolteacher and the itinerant preacher a broader viewpoint and deeper interest in the welfare of their charges—an interest deeper because more practical and more hopeful.

Nor must we rest with this. A striking feature of the new movement is the determined effort to show the business man in the city that he has a point of intimate contact with the farmer—that in mutual help is to be found advantage for both.

We like this work because it is based on sound social lines. It is in harmony with the finest ideals of the time.
There is immense satisfaction to Kentuckians in finding the old state assuming a place of leadership in an undertaking so splendid and so promising.—Editorial in Louisville Herald, April 2.

Cairo has released John Nairn as manager. Mike Egan, vice-president, will take charge of the finances and Overton will be made captain.

Woody, of Clarksville, has been released and is now third baseman for the Moguls. We had him once before and made a mistake in letting him go.

A Kitty league record was established with Monday's game by Mogul McArthur, 19-year old college youth, having pitched forty-six successive endings without being scored on. Monday he yielded but two hits and only one man reached second and thirty one faced him. He did not issue a pass. He won his game 8 to 0.

Quick Business Transaction.

While a flock of sheep was being driven along the Glasgow and Carlisle road, near the town of Lockertle, Scotland, the other day, a motorist ran into it, killing three. The motorist at once drew up, inquired as to the cost of the sheep, paid for them, bade the shepherd "Good-day," and went on his way, the whole affair being the work of a few minutes.

Mrs. Anna Layne, of Louisville, is visiting in the city.

NO EARTHLY USE FOR FENCE

Those Inside of Cemetery Couldn't Get Out, and Those Outside Didn't Want to Get In.

To illustrate the difficulty which attends any attempt to part the average man from his money for a church purpose collection, Bishop Murray recently told this story at a gathering in the Green Spring Valley. It seems that a certain church had a very well-kept cemetery surrounded by a good fence, which fence was one night blown down by a violent storm. A meeting of the church members was held to consider the rebuilding of the fence, and the resolution to do so was passed by a vote of 95 to 5. This point being decided, the minister announced that contributions to pay for the rebuilding would be next in order. The announcement was received in unenthusiastic silence, broken at last by a member who rose to object to the rebuilding of the fence.

"If you think it over," he argued, "you will see we don't need the fence. For, gentlemen, those who are inside the cemetery can't get out, and those outside certainly don't want to get in, so what use is a fence after all? I move to recall the vote."

And recalled it was by a vote of 100 to 0.

Long-Lived.
"Oh, yes, I come of a very long-lived family. My father cut a third set of teeth when he was past eighty." "That's nothing. My grandfather died of infantile paralysis when he was ninety-seven."

Good Reason.

The defendant, who was held on the charge of keeping a dog without a license, repeatedly tried to interrupt the evidence, but was hushed each time by the court. Finally the clerk turned to him:

"Do you wish the court to understand that you refuse to renew your dog license?"

"Yes, but—"

"We want no 'buts.' You must renew your license or be fined. You know it expired on Jan. 1."

"Yes, but so did the dog."—Harper's Weekly.

Mean Joke.

"Father in?"
"Nope."
"Mother in?"
"Nope."
"Sister?"
"Nope."
"Brother?"
"Nope."
"Well, it strikes me as mighty strange that even you are in."
"I guess they wanted to play a joke on me is the reason they didn't tell me you was comin'."

Vulgarity.

"It is vulgar to dress so as to attract attention on the street."
"Isn't it!"
"I saw Miss Knobby going down the street yesterday in a gown which caused every man she passed turn and look at her."
"Sure enough? I wonder who is her dressmaker?"
"I asked her, but she wouldn't tell me."

Daylight Invented.

Dr. Herbert E. Ives, a prominent scientist of Philadelphia, claims to have invented a substitute for daylight. He has been at work for a dozen years at the research laboratories of the city's gas plant and finally has produced, he says, a light which has passed the test and is in every way equal to sunshine and the light of day.

He has designed a powerful incandescent lamp with a special mantle which is so placed in the top of a special made cabinet that its rays are immediately beneath a reflector. This is made of metal and the light is forced downward through a series of delicately colored screens.

PRISONER SKIPPED

But Came Back to Serve Out
His Sentence.

A few weeks ago a negro by the name of Clyde Croney was before the city court charged with stealing a jug of whiskey. He was found guilty and sent to jail for sixty days. While working out near the stand pipe he made his escape. Last Sunday night he presented himself at the jail and said he had come back from St. Louis to serve his time. The jailer's son "took him in."

Points Decided.

The following points have been passed on by Assistant Attorney General Logan: Socialists cannot vote in the primary Saturday. Election officers cannot deliver a Democratic ballot to a known Republican. The qualifications of challenged voters are passed upon by the entire board.

John Gaines Sheriff.

County Judge H. P. Denhardt has appointed Editor John B. Gaines, of the Daily News, sheriff of Warren county to serve at the primary on next Saturday in lieu of Sheriff W. L. McNeal, who is disqualified under the law to act.

SAW FIRST OF PHOTOGRAPHY

Frenchman Only Recently Deceased
Worked With Its Inventor, Daguerre, in 1839.

The familiar things of every day we are apt to accept as if they had always existed. It is rather startling to hear of the death of a man who has been identified with photography from its invention.

Such a man was Louis Pierson, who has just died in Paris at the age of ninety-one.

A native of Lorraine, he went to Paris in 1836, three years before Daguerre made his sensational discovery. The boy was fascinated by the new art and had the gift of foreseeing that it had a great future.

He became one of the most promising students of the inventor. He discovered means of simplifying some of the complicated processes of the original invention, and soon established an atelier of his own, in which most of the fashionables of the second empire were photographed.

In spite of his age he served through the war with Prussia. Afterward, with two sons-in-law, he founded the house which has been noted for the excellence of its reproductions of works of art.

PATERNAL PROPOSITION.

"The government throws all the obsolete army weapons on the junk pile. They are unsalable."

"Seems to me the government gives very little thought to pleasing its citizens."

"How now?"

"Think of the innocent joy that would result if they buried those weapons on the various battlefields for tourists to dig up."

WAYSIDE EPISODE.

"Kind sir, please gimme a nickel to buy a sandwich."

"You should not eat meat, my good man. Eat nuts."

DIRECTORS MEETING

Several Items of Business Attended To.

The Directors of the H. B. M. A. held a meeting at their rooms last Tuesday night. Several matters of importance were before the body.

The visit of the officials of the I. C. railroad was considered and Geo. E. Gary, Geo. D. Dalton and D. D. Cayce were appointed to arrange for a proper reception of the visitors next Monday afternoon at 5:30. It was left to the discretion of this committee as to the place where the officials shall be met by the members of the Association. The reception will partake of the nature of a smoker and talk-fest, most probably.

A committee was appointed to select a man of experience in handling business men's organizations, to succeed Mr. R. L. Castleberry, resigned.

Paul Winn was elected temporary secretary and collector.

Other matters of importance were discussed but action was postponed to the next meeting.

HARRY ROSETER

Created a Disturbance On Clay
Street Saturday Night.

Clay street is usually very quiet, but the people of the South end had a disturbing element in their midst last Saturday night when Harry Roseter presented himself at the home of Max Raubold. Mr. Raubold's caller demanded a night's lodging, and on the refusal of the man of the house to accommodate him, he proceeded to raise a disturbance. It is said that Mr. Raubold landed one blow in the face of the would-be guest that put him on the floor. Neighbors, among whom were some screaming ladies, arrived on the scene and there was a great rumus, something altogether new to that section. Roseter was "entertained" at the city lock-up and Monday was put on the street gang to serve six days for indulging his appetite for strong drink and disorderly conduct.

BLACK DAMP, BLACK MAN.

Tragedy in a Well Near Fairview Monday Evening.

Wilson Kimbrough, colored, lost his life Monday and his brother, George, was rescued barely in time when they attempted to clean out a well in which there was black damp. George Kimbrough, with a rope tied about his body, had gone down into the well. When he began to act queerly, staggering about and butting his head against the wall, his brother, instead of pulling him out, went down into the well too. Another negro drew George up by the rope, but Wilson was overcome and drowned in the water which was about three feet deep. Vigorous work had to be done to save George Kimbrough's life. The well was located on the farm of George Kimbrough, Sr., father of the men, about three miles from Fairview. It was an old-fashioned dug well, about fifty feet deep.

Broke For Liberty.

As Morris Brooks, jailer of Morganfield, began to lock up the prisoners in the jail here Monday night, three negroes jumped on him and, knocking him unconscious, made their escape from the jail. One of the men, Fred Stewart, was soon caught, but an all-night search failed to reveal a clue to the others. The men were in jail for housebreaking. Adjoining towns are on the look-out for John Jackson and Harris Miller, the two who made good their escape.

TOOK DUKE FOR A PUBLICAN

Idea of Business Man Was Not Altogether Flattering to the Duke of Argyll.

Here is the latest story about the duke of Argyll, who some thirty years ago, when he was known as the marquis of Lorne, was governor-general of Canada. He was at the opening of a building exhibition held recently in London, England, and found his way to a stall where samples of chimney pots were exhibited. Addressing the attendant, the duke said, "I am troubled very much with smoke at my house in Scotland, and you may send me some of these chimney pots."

"May I ask your name, and where I am to send them?" asked the attendant, who did not recognize his customer.

"The duke of Argyll, at Rosyth," replied the purchaser.

"And may I ask your name, sir?" continued the attendant, and when he was told the position of affairs he was afterwards heard to remark, "Why, I took the chap for a publican, and took the name, 'The Duke of Argyll,' for the sign of his pub." Montreal Herald.

FOUND OUT HIS HOME TOWN

Wilson Mizner Used Strategy in Questioning Stranger as to His Place of Abode.

Wilson Mizner, the playwright, and Nat Evans, the globe trotter, were coming back from Europe not long ago. Evans, who has lived all over the United States and prides himself on his good memory, was distressed because he could not place a fellow-passenger—a solid-looking citizen with the middle west air about him.

"I know I've seen him somewhere," he said; "and just for curiosity I'd like to know what town he comes from."

"All right!" said Mizner. "I'll find out for you."

"How?" inquired Evans. "Ask him?"

"Certainly not," said Mizner; "anybody could think of that way of finding out. The thing to do is to show some finesse. Come, little one, with me."

He led Evans to where the stranger was standing on the promenade deck intently watching a passing ship. Directly behind him they halted. He had not seen them approaching.

"Tell me," demanded Mizner in a loud tone, "what town in the United States has the most up-to-date fire department?"

The stranger spun on his heel, with his forefinger aimed and leveled:

"Cedar Rapids," he said—"small, but efficient!"—Saturday Evening Post.

HEALTH CAMPAIGN

Begins in Christian County
Next Monday.

A crusade against preventable diseases begins in this county next Monday. This crusade will be conducted under the auspices of the State Board of Health and the county physician, Dr. W. A. Lackey.

Dr. Lackey says that 2,000 doses of anti-typhoid serum will be distributed in the county and city free of charge to anyone applying at his office after the opening up of the campaign, who is in a condition to receive the treatment, which is not recommended for those having certain other latest diseases. The prevention of typhoid fever by the use of serum is no longer a theory, but is an accepted fact. Many people in the city and county, it is said, have already used serum to keep back the most deadly of all fevers.

Dr. W. H. Richmond will lecture at the court house Monday morning and evening.

Italy's Latest.

Tests have been made before scientists at Turin, Italy, of a machine invented by a mechanic named Florio, by which, it is claimed, perpetual motion is demonstrated. The basic principle underlying the method employed is the contraction and expansion of gas. The machine collects the caloric energy of the air, which is inexhaustible, and transforms it into mechanical energy. The air is supplied automatically and the apparatus is in continuous motion by reason of the passage of the gas from the warmer atmosphere to the colder water.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ENTENTE CORDIALE

"We really ought to ask Cousin Sue and her fiancé to dinner soon," said Olive, with a little sigh. "It's several weeks now since the engagement was announced."

"Yes," agreed mother briskly; "Sue's been like one of our own since she was a little girl, though we haven't seen much of her lately; and his folks being connected with father's business ought to make us all the more interested. Let's get the thing settled this evening. I wish we knew more about him and his family, the little I've heard gave me the impression that they were all sort of uppity. I guess I got the notion from you, father."

"Shouldn't wonder," said father, rousing himself from the evening paper. "I don't know Robert, Sue's young man, but his father and Frank, the brother—well, the old gentleman's pretty set in his ways, and a regular old fuss-budget, especially about his food, and I guess Frank is like him—eh, Tom?"

"Sure thing!" Tom contributed; "we lunch together sometimes, and his discourses on the subject of cats are something choice. The poor chap has indigestion, though, which helps make him fussy, I suppose. I only see Bob once in a while, for he travels mostly, so I never had a chance to get a line on his views."

"Well," observed mother, getting back to the main topic, "about this dinner. Shall we call it next Wednesday?" The family thoughtfully searched for previous engagements, and finally assented to the proposed date. "That's easy," said Olive; "and now the really important question comes: what shall we have? Consomme, for a starter; one can't go wrong on that. And next—roast beef, mother?"

"Cut it out!" exclaimed Tom. "Old Smiley won't have beef in the house, since the packing house element got into literature; Frank told me so." A moment of thought, then mother suggested that roast chickens were always nice.

"Guess again," suggested his father, sitting up and looking interested. "It comes to me now that old Smiley told me they once had a Jap cook who could curry fowl in Indian style; and since Hashimura went back home it seems that the family can't endure the thought of common garden chicken—never touch it any more."

"And Frank," added Tom, "once confided to me that they never had sheep in any form on the home table, or pork either. Goodness knows what they do eat! Frank takes only limp sawdust food at luncheon. Gee, mother, you are up against it! The trouble is, folks like that are always sure to detest what they don't like. And Bob—maybe he'll be worse yet, after a couple of months in Paris. Say, we couldn't work a theater party, and a restaurant supper afterward, could we—to sort of shift the responsibility, and not betray ourselves as plain Americans, who once lived in the country?"

"We might, if we had French restaurant and grand opera incomes!" Olive reminded him with scorn. "Besides, Sue wouldn't like it; she's a homey thing, like ourselves, and if we did anything formal she'd think we didn't want to let Mr. Smiley into the family circle. Next time I see her perhaps I can get a few points about his preferences, if I'm tactful, so we can touch his heart through the traditional avenue."

"A good idea," mother approved. "I want to make him like us, and feel at home, for Sue's sake, though we're such plain folks, it's not much use to pretend—" She was interrupted by the ringing of the doorbell and a moment later Sue herself was ushered in, laughing and rosy, and behind her a tall, good-looking youth, whose slight reserve might have been due to shyness or to conscious superiority.

"Thought we'd drop in," Sue explained airily, "and give Bobs a chance to get acquainted. He's only seen his in-laws at teas and such fluffy places, where folks aren't like themselves, and I do want him to know my bestest cousins. Bobs, you've heard me speak of Aunt Sarah—she gave me that book of grandmother's recipes. And wait till you taste her molasses cookies!"

A general laugh set them more at ease, and Tom and Olive noted with approval a twinkle of unmistakable humor in Robert's brown eyes. I suggested to Olive a daring idea, to which she impulsively gave expression a few moments later. "I'm glad you two happened in," she marked, "for we were just planning a home dinner for you, and trying to decide what you'd like best; so now the easiest way is just to pin you down and make you choose your own menu!"

Sue clapped her hands. "What a gorgeous idea!" she laughed; "only I'm going to make Bobs do it all, and if he leaves out anything, or puts in anything I don't like, I'll amend the constitution later." The young man laughingly protested, but the family joined Sue with great cordiality, mother suggesting that Mr. Smiley could no doubt give them some new ideas from Paris.

"Mr. Smiley," returned Robert with spirit, "consigns Parisian eats to—ahem!—Paris. I say, do you really mean it—and will you promise not to be shocked? It's offering a chance to a desperate man, for our folks—well, their conception of perfectly good food isn't always mine. First, then, I choose—pork and beans," mused Rob, thoughtfully, while the faces about him showed various stages of amazement. "Then—I wish I dared say boiled onions; but that would be too much, wouldn't it—Aunt Sarah? Really? Oh, that's bully! Thanks! And brown bread—I think you make it in a double boiler, don't you? But I'm sure I'm choosing too many things—and maybe they don't make a good ensemble. Father's so particular about the ensemble—"

"Go on!" cried the family, with enthusiasm, and he did, while Tom asked wonderingly, "How on earth did you hit our own favorites—or," suspiciously, "are you just being polite?"

The visitor laughed. "Not a bit of it! You see, I was the youngest, and I spent a lot of time with Grandmother Brown on the farm, while the rest of 'em were educating their tastes, as they called it, in town, so it's me for the good old things, every time. Now, Sue, it's your turn." She supplemented his selections with a few of her own favorites, and an equally fine disregard of the ensemble, and after a jolly half hour the two took their leave, Robert highly pleased with his prospective relatives. And as father closed the shutters and put out the lights he observed to mother, "A nice, sensible young man! Sue's fortunate to get him!" Olive, half-way up the stairs, cautioned mother to look up the recipe for molasses cookies, to be sure of perfection on the important occasion, while Tom, from the upper floor, put in a plea: "And say, mother, he's a person of discrimination, and I'll bet he likes sauerkraut, too; can't we have some, for the whatyou-callum—ongtree, you know?"—Buffalo Express.
